WHILE THERE may be a few Repubheans in Phoenix who were disappointed at the defeat of Mr. Blaine, there are none who, as the campaign progresses, will not fall into the ranks and shout for the nominee. Their disappointment was not because they opposed Horrison, but because they admired Blaine.

THE ENERGY and enthusiasm with which the Republicans of Phoenix are preparing to ratify the nomination of Harrison and Reid Saturday shows that while a preference may have been expressed before the convention, the watchward now is "our ticket and vic-

IT BEGINS TO LOOK now as though the 'Stuffed Prophet" will fall several lengths short of the nomination. 'Tis better, after all, to meet defeat at a party convention, than to be rebuked at a people's election.

IF PHOESIX ever expects to have a boom or become a city, old fossilized ideas must be abandoned, and fossilized politicians relegated to the rear. In this year of our Lord 1892 it takes "zip" and enterprise to make a city.

THE REPUBLICAN campaign has been launched under favorable auspices, indeed, and everything indicates that the most critical hours, safe and sure enthusiasm will increase until it crystalizes into a regular jubilee. It is refreshing to hear Democrats talk about dissension in the Republican ranks, when their party is composed of nothing but contending factions. Look at New York, for instance. THE DEATH OF Sidney Dillon removes one of the most noted of American millionaires from the theatre of American

One-fourth of British investments abroad are in the United States. When at the Shop, next to Dublin Corral. it is all counted up it is found that Great Britain owns over $1,000,000,000 of the wealth of the United States. Talk of war between England and America!

From and after this date no "dead head" advertising will be carried in the columns of THE REPUBLICAN. It costs money to set type, and we cannot afford to pay printers for labor on this class of advertising. The Arizona Republican company is willing todonate in cash, to all meritorious public, religious and charitable enterprises, to the extent of its means, but it has established a rule to give away no more advertising. Church and charitable notices will be printed at half of the usual rates for the same class of advertising, but all other advertising will be charged for at regular rates.

THE REPUBLICAN will in the future, as in the past, devote its best energies to the up building and development of Phonix and of Arizona, because that is its mission, but advertising ordered at the counting room by individuals must be paid for.

> Whitechapel, London, is like. These magnificent young university men have taken no vows, made no parade. Their first effort is to convince the slum people that they do not think themselves any better than those whom they have chosen to live among. Many of these gentlemen are poor and work for their living during the day. At night they teach scientific or literary classes and give lectures. Other lecturers are invited and it is said that the most distinguished writers and speakers in England are heard nowhere oftener than in Whitechapel.

gained perfectly the confidence of the Cattle, Beef, Pork and Mutton. As to what they have done, they have people among whom they have cast their lot. They have established a library and clubs of various kinds. They have done incalculable good in showing the people how to lead a happier, cleaner life. One of the university graduates is president of the London Dock Laborers' union. These university settlements will prove one of the brightest stars in he crown of the Nineteenth century There is hope for the world in them.

Prospects of Aerial Travel.

Professor S. P. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian institution, has always believed that in time mankind would travel through air as surely as they now travel over land and water. He seems more certain of it than ever, judging from a brief paper in The Cosmo Indeed, he announces to us a new field of mechanics-that of "aerodromics"creasing. The official statistics of the a running on the air. In this field the engineer and the physicist of the immediate future will exploit themselves, just as they do now in the field of electrical achievement.

Half the problem Professor Langley considers, has already been solved. It is the construction of a machine which will support itself in the air like one of the great, motionless, soaring birds. such as the vulture and the turkey buzzard. Machines to do this have already been invented. They take advantage of much needed street lights are offered the well known inertia of the air, "that such a proposition, anyone but placed," as a starting principle. To rest upon this are constructed great kitelike supporting planes, set at a proper angle. The machine thus built can support itself as well as the skater upon ice or the bicycle rider, if only the inventor shall appear who will teach us how to guide the thing. That is the other half of the problem. Professor Langley writes:

> Once more, then for we cannot be too clear r too emphatic about this), it has been demon strated that machines, even if they are built of the heavier metals, such as steel, can be sustained in the air with an expenditure of power certainly within our ability to com-mand, and at a great speed, if they are guided rightly. What has not been demonstrated, is that we can guide such machines aright in the desired horizontal path, and that we can decend with safety in them; and this is the next thing to do.
